

A composition for promoting extension of bladder smooth muscle, comprising adrenomedullin. The composition of the present invention may be used to ameliorate a urination disorder. The urination disorder may be a urinary incontinence selected from the group consisting of urge incontinence, reflex incontinence, and overflow incontinence. According to the present invention, a method is provided for ameliorating a urination disorder using a composition comprising adrenomedullin. Further, use of adrenomedullin in production of a drug for ameliorating a urination disorder is provided.